What is to be more or less a "men's night" will be held at the Congregational church this Sunday evening. Masons and Odd Fellows have been invited to attend, and have accepted. This type of service is a fine thing, and just the sort of thing one expects of "Reverend Joe" Bennett. Another of Mr. Bennett's long suits is the young folks' work, in which he has been singularly successful. At a recent C. E. convention in Redwood City there were 65 or more young people from Reverend Bennett's church—a goodly share of the total attendance. Fine work, and worthy of all encouragement.

In a single day last week news "broke" in three of the great capitals of the world, any item of which if it had happened alone would have been good for a world sensation. In Germany the Bruening cabinet fell and pending the organization of a new one President Hindenburg issued a long series of emergency decrees which gave his government far reaching powers in dealing with the nation's financial and economic burden and in thwarting the attempts of the opposition parties to make Germany fascist or communist. In London the parliament was dissolved and the nation swung into an intensive three weeks campaign for a general election, the result of which will determine whether Ramsay MacDonald, with the support of liberals and conservatives, would be returned to power, or whether Great Britain will pass into the hands of the Labor party, now more than ever inclined toward red socialism. In Washington, President Hoover submitted to a group of members of congress, Democrats and Republicans, a far reaching plan for the rehabilitation of American business through the restoration of confidence in American banks.

For Americans, of course, the most important of these sensational world events was the White House conference. Before that conference President Hoover presented a plan which was so clear, so comprehensive and of such inherent strength that it commended itself at once to the approval of the bi-partisan group which had been assembled to hear it.

In briefest possible summary the President's plan is:

1. Creation of a half-billion dollar private credit agency to handle credits unacceptable to the reserve banks.
2. Liquidation of some of the frozen assets of insolvent banks.
3. Appointment of regional bankers' committees to aid generally in credit expansion.
4. Liberalization of the rules to permit reserve banks to handle a wider variety of securities.
5. If necessary, creation of a government credit agency similar to the old war finance corporation.
6. Strengthening of the resources of the Federal Land banks to further accommodate the farmer.

The purpose of the plan is to stabilize the American banking system, to restore confidence and to release capital. That there is every hope it will accomplish these tremendous purposes has been made manifest by the virtually unanimous acclaim with which the plan has been received. The American Bankers' association, in session at Atlantic City when the plan was published, adopted a resolution giving it unanimous and enthusiastic approval. The great banking houses in New York proceeded at once to work out the details of the 500 million dollar credit corporation for which the plan provided. In every banking and industrial center the plan was greeted with enthusiasm, as it was in every European capital.

GOOD CROWD AT OPEN MEETING OF COUNTRY
WOMAN'S CLUB MONDAY

The presence of some four score women at the Community Hall on Monday attested the interest which the announcement of the showing of moving pictures of Canadian scenery had aroused among members and friends of the Country Woman's Club.

Baskets of maple branches with their brightly colored leaves recalled to the minds of those who had seen them the glowing forests of Canada and stimulated the imagination of others, as Mrs. Mary Lanphear, chairman of the program committee, depicted them, using as an example a maple lined creek and road in Missouri.

The maple leaf has been the adopted symbol of Canada for many years, and it is heralded in their national song, "The Maple Leaf Forever," which was sung by a quartet including Mrs. R. H. Hyde, Mrs. D. L. Page, H. C. Smith and Dr. W. I. Merrill, Mrs. G. S. Robson, accompanist.

Mr. Simmons, a representative from the San Francisco office of the Canadian Northern railway presented four reels of pictures showing scenes along the inland water route to Alaska and then by rail to the Yukon, the Canadian Rockies and Jasper National Park. Two other reels were devoted to a sea voyage from Halifax to the picturesque British possessions in the West Indies, and to British Guiana.

Announcements were made of the County Federation card party Wednesday, and the meeting

"Borrowers" Wards
Of Juvenile Court

Six Campbell boys and a girl, ranging in age from 14 to 18, charged with petit theft as the result of stealing gasoline for their automobile, were made wards of the juvenile court by Superior Judge F. B. Brown Friday.

The seven were Pauline Johnson, 16; Frank Miranda, 14; Claude Brewer, 17; Martin Raabe, 15; Frank Bedal, 18; Charles Bedal, 15; and Elmer McCoy, 17.

They were arrested last week by Campbell officers for stealing gasoline from an excavator in a gravel pit. They stated Friday they used the gasoline in an automobile owned by one of their number. They further admitted that in all they stole about 35 gallons of fuel.

Judge Brown severely lectured the six and made them wards of the court. He also ordered them to report weekly to the juvenile probation officer and to pay the owner of the excavator $7 for the gasoline they stole.

There Are Two Sides To The Water Question

The current water plan, according to the Tibbett survey, is for five permanent dams with canals connecting the lakes and numerous less substantial check, percolating and spreading dams—all designed to hold the winter's water and permit it to sink into the ground, thus raising the water level. Thus far, the plan seems to be a good one, in fact, about the only one that will insure us a permanent water supply.

The cost is estimated by the Engineer at $5,500,000, to be provided by sale of bonds running 25 years at 4 per cent. The interest to be paid will then be another $5,500,000, making the total cost $11,000,000. This entire cost is to be charged against assessed land values, as estimated increase on land taxes of $140 per $100 assessed valuation. Not so good.

For purposes of discussion, let me call this the Easy Mark Plan. I will suggest another which for purposes of discussion I shall call the Cooperative Plan.

Everyone needs and uses water and everyone who does so should help to provide it. This is Co-operation.

Consider the canneries, factories, laundries, railroads, water companies and so on, all using vast quantities of water which they either pump themselves from the underground reservoir or buy from a water company which pumps and sells it at a profit. Not one of these, under the Easy Mark Plan, pays a cent for replenishing and maintaining the underground supply, except on their lots, but the land owner pays practically the entire eleven millions in taxes. I have no available statistics which give the amount of water used industrially, but one need only go through a canary, visit a laundry or look around a water company's plant to realize where the main part of our water goes. Some establishments have two, three or even four large wells gushing a solid stream practically every day in the year.

All this water is to be provided by landholders. Not water users, landholders. Why not tax all red headed men an amount sufficient to maintain our schools. Fine for bald heads and would just suit me. The term "landholder" does not mean exclusively ranchers but includes town lot owners as well.

The Cooperative Plan is to co-operate. Let the Conservation District meter every well that draws water from the underground reservoir, set a rate which will take care of interest, retirement fund on bonds and maintenance costs, collect monthly and leave the landholder's taxes alone. The rate would probably not be high, since the cost is divided among so many and will be more than compensated for by reduced pumping expense as the water level rises.

This means a change in the State Law. The only way the Cooperative Plan can be put into effect now is to defeat the bond issue at the coming election, then demand that the Legislature amend the law. Before the bond election occurs, there will be opposition to the Cooperative Plan, but if the bonds are defeated the supporters of the Easy Mark Plan will join in asking the Legislature to amend the law, on the theory that if they definitely cannot get free water at the landholder's expense, then the next best thing will be to pay their share, for they MUST have water.

Probably, some politicians will make promises that if you will vote for the bonds, they will see that a satisfactory adjustment will be made at the next legislative session. Boloney! Just try to cash those promises at a Bank and see what they are worth.

Landholders cannot lose. If the bonds carry, they will pay the entire eleven millions. If the bonds

Sino-Japanese Row Provides Severe Test for League of Nations—Chancellor Bruening Defies Fascists and Reds.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

REAL war between China and Japan became during the week more of a probability than a threat. Moreover, the situation in the Far East developed into a crucial test of the League of Nations as an organization for the preservation of peace, and made likely an equally important test of the value of the multilateral Kellogg treaty banning war. It was believed that, if the efforts of the council failed, the United States and the league would invoke the Kellogg pact, and that if either China or Japan continued recalcitrant, diplomatic relations with the offending nations might be severed.

The league council resumed its sittings of the controversy, and Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese representative, and Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, spoke at length. The former demanded immediate action by the league, declaring that a miscarriage of justice would jeopardize the faith of the world in Geneva and doom to failure the international disarmament conference next February. Yoshizawa countered by explaining and defending Japan's actions in Manchuria and reiterating the intention of his government to permit no outside intervention in the dispute. He said the matter could be settled only by direct negotiations between Japan and China. Doctor Sze replied: "China will never agree to such a course so long as Japanese troops invade her soil and until Japan makes full reparations for the loss of Chinese lives and property."

While the debate was in progress Doctor Sze received word that Japanese army planes had just bombed two more towns far west of Mukden. This action, like the bombing of Chinchow, was later defended by Tokyo with the assertion that Chinese had fired at the planes, which were scouting.

Notwithstanding the strenuous objections of Japan, the council voted 13 to 1, to invite the United States to participate in the discussion of measures to end the hostilities in Manchuria. This invitation Secretary Stimson had already said would be accepted, and Consul Prentiss B. Gilbert was on hand to represent this country though without a vote. Japan, it was thought, might withdraw from the league.

The American diplomatic commission investigating the Manchurian crisis continued its work, but was forbidden by the Japanese to go to Chinchow.

Throughout much of China the anti-Japanese boycott was gaining ground rapidly, and this especially irked Tokyo. It became evident that the Japanese cabinet, previously reported split over the policy in Manchuria, had come together again and that Premier Shi-dehara was supporting the militarists.

It is feared by the Nanking government that Manchuria was definitely lost by China. Chang Hsueh-liang, the young governor of the province, appeared to have been driven out by the Japanese, who are determined he shall not re-establish his control there. This determination was probably the real reason for the bombing of Chinchow, which Chang had made his temporary capital. Civic organizations in Manchuria appealed to the Nationalist government to resume relations with Soviet Russia, saying that only in that way could the annexation of Manchuria by Japan be prevented. Marshal Chang was moving his troops to strategic points, and evidently was backed up by President Chiang Kai-shek, who has declared himself prepared to go to war with Japan if the efforts of the league and the United States are futile.

SPAIN'S national assembly by an overwhelming vote adopted an article in the new constitution of the republic which declares that "no state religion exists." Thus was the Catholic church divorced from its union with the state which has existed for many centuries. The article also bans the church from engaging in commercial, industrial and educational activities.

Another article which would dissolve all church orders was rejected, but one was adopted that provides for the expulsion of all Jesuits from Spain, to take place when the constitution goes into effect. Only the Socialist radicals insisted on the wholesale expulsion of monks and nuns.

The action of the Cortes was followed by anti-clerical demonstrations in a number of cities, and at Santander an attempt was made to burn a Carmelite convent.

Not in sympathy with the action against the Catholic church and orders, President Zamora resigned and Minister of War Manuel Azana became head of the government.

INCORPORATED under the laws of Delaware, the National Credit corporation was prepared to go ahead with its mission of assisting banks throughout the country "to utilize their resources to further the stabilization of financial and economic conditions." The corporation has 12 directors, one from each federal reserve district, and each of them holds one of the 12 shares of $100 par value.

The funds within which the corporation will operate will be raised through the sale of debentures to the banks of the country on the basis of 2 per cent of their aggregate deposits, or the legal limit of investments, if that is lower.

These deposits aggregate $43,000,000,000. Corporations and private banking firms are expected to subscribe for the debentures also and it is possible that the total funds raised for the corporation will approximate $1,000,000,000.

Administration officials in Washington believe agriculture will share indirectly but largely in the benefits from the operations of the corporation. Banks in agricultural sections will be enabled to realize on frozen assets through services of the banking pool. Credit thus will be made available to put banks in a better position to lend for agricultural as well as other purposes. At the same time banks will be enabled to ease up on their demands, which will react in turn to lessen the pressure upon farmers and live stock producers who have obligations outstanding.

CHANCELLOR BRUENING of Germany is now practically the economic dictator of his country. He and President Von Hindenburg are determined to save the reich from the Hitlerites, called Fascists, and the Communists. The aged president announced that he would accept the chairmanship of an economic council which will assume dictatorship of the nation at least for the coming winter, but Bruening will be the real boss, for the council, it is expected, will work in close collaboration with him and his new cabinet.

Adolf Hitler

The council, as conceived by Von Hindenburg, will be composed of representatives of workers, industrialists and bankers and will thus have the entire industrial and commercial framework of the nation under its control.

Herr Bruening had already tried to bring Adolf Hitler to a realization of his duty to Germany, calling him into conference and laying before him the desperate situation. The chancellor then went before the reichstag and, boldly defying his political adversaries, presented his program of economics, sacrifices and discipline. Its outstanding points were: Continuation of the conciliation policy of Stresemann; adoption of a plan for the redemption of the nation's short term indebtedness; the maintenance of wage agreements between capital and labor, with adjustment to suit existing price levels; the maintenance of the gold standard, and the formation of steps to open the markets of the world to German goods.

PRESIDENT HOOVER and his advisers were studying various plans for the relief of the railroads, but nothing was decided on, and if the interstate commerce commission grants the increase in freight rates the roads ask, no further steps for helping the railways are likely to be taken before congress meets.

THOMAS R. AMLIE, progressive Republican, was elected to congress by the voters of the First Wisconsin district to fill out the unexpired term of the late Henry Allen Cooper, malist of the La Follette group in the house. Mr. Amlie, who lives in Elkhorn and is a lawyer, was supported by the La Follettes. His closest rival in the election was, surprisingly, A. J. Bouma of Racine, Socialist candidate.

Amle, in his campaign, made attacks against the Eighteenth amendment, the Republican tariff and the administration's handling of the unemployment problem. With victory for Amle the line-up in the house so far is: Republicans, 215; Democrats, 214; Farmer-Labor, 1, vacancies, 5.

RENEWALS of short term credits to Germany and Austria were voted by directors of the Bank for International Settlements at Basel. Discussing international finance, the directors emphasized the importance of the forthcoming meeting between President Hoover and Premier Laval of France in Washington and the dire necessity of the two nations reaching an agreement on world questions of finance, economics, and international obligations.

PREMIER LAVAL'S visit in Washington is to be followed by one from Dino Grandi, Italian minister for foreign affairs. He was invited by President Hoover, and will come for ten days in the latter part of November.

M. Laval sailed from France on October 19, accompanied by a number of assistants and advisers in finance and economics and also by his charming young daughter.

AT THE time of writing it is still unknown whom Governor Larson of New Jersey will appoint to the senate seat left vacant by the death of

E. C. Stokes

Dwight Morrow. One of the leading possibilities is Edward C. Stokes, who was governor of New Jersey in 1905-1909, and has always been active in Republican politics of the state. He is a banker and resides in Trenton. The governor was urged to name Mrs. Morrow by many advisers, and A. Harry Moore, Democratic candidate for governor, said if she were appointed and if he were elected, she would continue to hold the place.

WAR to the knife broke out during the week between Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana and Lieut. Gov. Paul N. Cyr. Though elected on the same ticket, the two men have been personal and political enemies, and Cyr has tried repeatedly to get Long out of the office. His latest coup was to take the oath of office as governor on the claim that Long was a United States senator and therefore not governor. This he did at Shreveport, and Long, who was in New Orleans, heard Cyr was moving on Baton Rouge, the state capital. He raced back by automobile and called out part of the National Guard to repel invasion, but the report of Cyr's march proving unfounded, the militia were sent home.

Cyr repaired to his home in southern Louisiana after sending a letter to Long formally demanding surrender of the governor's chair. He said if Long refused he would begin ouster proceedings.

THOUSANDS of persons assembled in Yorktown, Va., and helped in the elaborate celebration of the 150th anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to George Washington. On Surrender day, the final day of the fete, President Hoover delivered the main address; and other speeches were made during the celebration by Marshal Pétain of France, General Pershing, Secretary of War Hurley, Secretary of the Navy Adams and various other notables. Three thousand officers and men of the army were there, fully equipped; and in the York river was the historic frigate Constitution surrounded by dozens of the latest war ships of the American and French navies. The pageants, colonial dances and speechmaking lasted four days.

HERE is more trouble, indirectly, for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist church, South, pillar of the prohibition cause. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, unrelenting foe of the bishop, has persuaded Attorney General Mitchell to order an investigation of charges made by the senator that Harry L. Goldhurst, the bishop's stock broker, was to be paroled from prison "in pursuance of a blameworthy agreement made by Department of Justice officials in New York and elsewhere."

Goldhurst was convicted of using the mails to defraud, was sent to Atlanta penitentiary in October, 1929, and last July it was announced that he would be paroled on April 15, 1932.

The Virginia senator said it was reported that a conference had been held between Goldhurst, Bishop Cannon, and an unnamed New York politician, and that subsequently Goldhurst changed his plea of not guilty to one of guilty. This procedure, Senator Glass intimated, might have been followed to hide the bishop's stock speculation. He demanded that the attorney general learn whether there had been a promise that influence would be used to get Goldhurst out on parole.

Steps in the Evolution of the Telephone Switchboard

1. The world's first commercial telephone switchboard, 1878.

2. An early type of switchboard used in Washington, D. C.

6. A modern manual switchboard in a New York City central office. Comparison of this scene, typical of hundreds throughout the country, with the crude equipment shown in figure 1, gives some indication of the steps through which the art of telephony has passed in little more than half a century.

3. A switchboard once used in Richmond, Va.

4. Boy operators were employed in this New York City central office of 1879.

5. A Milwaukee switchboard of 1889.

After Alexander Graham Bell had invented the telephone, in 1876, the need for some means of interconnecting several telephone lines at one central point was soon apparent. Within a few years, widely different methods were tried out in various parts of the country. In 1880, the Western Electric Manufacturing Company brought out its standard switchboard, and this fundamental design and the method of operation have been followed ever since. Developments have been toward accommodating the rapidly increasing number of telephone subscribers, and toward perfecting the equipment and circuits which give the highly efficient service of the present. Some steps in the evolution of the switchboard are shown above. Figure 1: True to its name, the switchboard installed for the New Haven District Telephone Company was a "board" with "switches" on it. Figure 2: Following telegraph methods, connections on this "Post" switchboard were made by inserting solid metal plugs between horizontal cross-connecting bars and vertical rows of metal buttons connected to the various lines. Figure 3: The use of double-ended cords, instead of switches or solid plugs, is shown in this telegraph-type switchboard. Figure 4: Cords were used in this New York City office of 1879, as was also an early type of hand telephone for talking with subscribers; the boys were soon replaced by girl operators. Figure 5: This Milwaukee switchboard, in use five years after the introduction of the first commercial switchboard in New Haven, shows the use of construction more nearly resembling modern practice. Figure 6: The most striking change, as exemplified in today's manual switchboard, is the great compression of equipment required to handle the concentrated traffic of the present.

man pay nothing? Under the Easy Mark Plan, a water company, owning perhaps four or five acres with big, deep wells, would pay only on those acres, though they pump millions of gallons and sell it for miles around. No wonder that there is a big merger of water companies going on.

The Cooperative Plan will stop waste of water and do it automatically, which will have a decided influence in bringing up the water table.

Suppose the Easy Mark Plan carries. The Air Base is already located and started—to draw on your eleven million dollar reservoir—and there are various other industrial concerns planning to locate along the Railroad of the Bay Shore. Each will get his water practically free out of the underground reservoir you have paid for. It is quite conceivable that before the 25 years are up the industrial development will be such that the water table will have again dropped. Then the landholder will be called on to pay for a new source of supply—for the precedent will have been established.

Under the Easy Mark Plan non-irrigated land will pay just as irrigated land does. A big canner will pay only on its factory site.

The Cooperative plan will make the bonds gilt-edged and they will probably sell at a substantial premium, reducing the interest rate.

There may be some by-products, such as power, fishing and resort concessions, etc. This is worth looking into, especially the power item. Whatever such revenue there is belongs to the District and should be secured to the District when the law is amended.

The landholder can do one of two things. He can vote for the bonds and carry the full weight of the industrial setup of Santa Clara Valley on his shoulders or he can defeat the bonds and make the other fellow pay his share if he wants any water. And the man who owns one lot in a town is just as much concerned as the rancher with a hundred acres.

In short, will you be an Easy Mark or an equal partner?

Cong'l. Church Notes

J. W. Knowles, a well-known resident of Campbell, is now giving his valuable assistance to Mr.
Bennett in the scouting program.
Other helpers, it is hoped, will soon be forthcoming, enabling a greater and more satisfactory work among the lads. A senior scout is needed to assist with the younger groups.

The C. E. Society carried off the banner at the Redwood City convention held last week-end.
Fifty-nine from Campbell actually registered, 65 sat down at the banquet table, and it is estimated the total attendance of local people was over 80. Miss Gladys Merriman was elected as the new president and Miss Han-cie Naylor as the new secretary.
Rev. Bennett is the Pastor Counsellor of the county Christian Endeavor.

PUNDITAS TO HOLD CHARITY TEA

The Pundita Circle is giving a tea at the home of Mrs. Louis Carboni on the Santa Clara-Los Gatos road at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, Oct. 28.
Cards will be the diversion. A small charge will be made, the proceeds to go to local relief work. The public is invited.

Mrs. P. M. Cleinens and Mrs.
Charles Grimmer and son Charles,
Jr. of Woodlake, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. O.
Krohn of Campbell. Mrs. Krohn and children accompanied her guests on their return to Wood-lake where she will visit for several weeks.

Messrs. Hyde, Field, Archibald, Dempsey, Morton, Farley and Fanning journeyed to Watsonville Sunday where they participated in the second district Kiwanis golf tournament. The Campbell men walked off with the cup, which will probably be no display as soon as it is engraved.

Guy Farley was second high individual, Harry True of Salinas beating him by only two points.

Mrs. F. R. Anderson and sister, Miss Gertrude Boehme of San Jose, witnessed the football game at Stanford Saturday.

The Campbell baseball nine defeated the Y. M. I. team Sunday 7 to 6. Their next game is Sunday with the Cardinals at Palo Alto.

Mrs. Hugh Fulton and daughter, Idell have returned from a several months visit in Fresno.

Bernard Robson, who is studying medics in San Francisco, joined his parents Saturday afternoon at the Stanford-Oregon game and spent Sunday at home in Campbell.
